

Essay 3 - Why I fell for you ♥♥♥

Hey sweetie. I know you asked me to write an essay on why I fell for you and how I felt when I first saw you so I thought I'd do that so then you can look at it whenever you're struggling or think that I'm going to leave (which I'm never ever going to do because you're just so amazing and perfect and I love everything about you). Can I just quickly say thank you for being with me, I know I can be a pain but I really do love you and you're everything to me. I just want to help you whenever I can and make sure you're safe and happy.

I guess I'll start with when I first saw you and work from there. I think the first time I saw you was when you were hanging around with Lincoln during lunch time and I also believe it was the same day we had a walk through Northernhay. But the very first time I saw you was on the ground floor in Exeter College and I remember thinking to myself he looks cute and I also had a weird sort of feeling about you, even now I can't describe the feeling but I just had this weird feeling when I looked at you. I seriously thought you were so cute though baby, a little shy but really cute. I think at the time I was too shy to say anything to you. I believe it was me who added you on Facebook. Anyway, I used messenger to talk to you and get to know you. I pretty sure one of the first questions you asked me was if I was gay haha.

I think I saw you a few times around college but I didn't really see you hang around Lincoln after the first time I saw you. I believe the next time I properly saw you was outside English (which you like to tease me about sighs), I know you like to make fun of me for it but I couldn't stop looking at you because I just kept thinking to myself how beautiful you were and how much I wanted to touch your leg and kiss you. I just thought you were so gorgeous and that you had such a lovely voice, back then I was thinking "this guy is unique" and I just thought you were so stunning. I know I looked stupid and just a bit creepy and for that I am sorry, I just couldn't stop looking at you. Just going to say that I am ok with you making fun of me for it, I just get embarrassed that's all. I think the last time we were in person and spoke was in the library, I believe I was doing assignment work and you came up to me and started talking to me. I remember this because I remember you sitting next to me and I showed you a clip from the terminator movie which made you go "ewwww" haha.

I think that was the last time we spoke in person. I still saw you around college and when you were outside the classroom in the mornings. I think I told you this before but I used to look at you when you were standing outside the classroom, I would just glance over to see you and make sure that you were ok. I think from there we just spoke on messenger every so often. I'm pretty sure I've told you this too but when you started dating people I would distance myself and not really talk to you that much, the reason for this was because I felt like I would be interfering and I didn't want to hurt you in anyway because I wanted to be with you but I was just afraid at the time as I didn't know what people would think of it. I do remember talking to you about kissing you in the toilets and then chickening out and I knew that upset you and I am sorry about that, I just wasn't ready to be with such an amazing guy. I think that was the only time back then that I did that and I realised that maybe I shouldn't really say anything to you about it. I was just afraid and scared.

I just want to say that even though we didn't talk much, I did think about you and what you were up to and wondered if you were ok. When I was at university I thought about you a lot but I never messaged you because we hadn't spoken in awhile and I wasn't sure if you wanted to hear from me. When I was watching an episode of South Park there was an episode where there was a gay couple and I wished that I could have that you. I know I'm stupid for not messaging you but my mental health wasn't great at university and I don't think I was 100% ready, I took a long time I know. I think I started to question myself when I was in university but I really didn't start doing it until I finished my university work. I had more freetime on my hands and I guess my mind wandered more.

What really kicked it off though was seeing your pictures on Instagram, I'm pretty sure I froze for a few minutes just looking at your pictures. The one I looked at the most was the one with your christmas hat on and I remember how it made me happy seeing you smile, you looked so happy in that picture. After that I thought about you pretty much every night and dreamt what it would be like to be dating you and what it would be like to kiss you and hold your hand. I suppose that's why I talked to you more because I found out that I was in love with you a lot and wanted to be with you.

I know I did my usual I'm into you and then chickened out and I am sorry, I was still afraid and to be honest nervous my heart was racing when we spoke about dating the first time. I got annoyed with myself because I had upset you and I was messing you around but I knew that I wanted to be with you. That's why when you said you wished someone like me was LGBT that I went with that because I thought I could maybe tell you this way. I am glad that I did as it meant that I could finally be with you!

I've fallen for you so much since then. I just love everything about you. I love your voice, I love your attitude towards things, I love the fact that I can have a laugh with you. It does feel nice to have someone who actually loves me back as well. There was an Instagram picture of you in this Pikachu jumper thing and I just thought to myself that you are so beautiful and I just want to protect you from everything, I don't want anyone to hurt you, you're too precious to me and I just want you to be happy and safe. Our holiday in Brighton was the best and I want another week like that. I love the stuff we do together and I can't wait for our concerts and to spend Valentine's Day with you in Brighton. It's going to be really fun and romantic.

I hope that this was ok baby. Just remember that I love you so so so much and I always will, nothing will change how I feel about you. I want to be with you forever and ever and I want to get engaged to you and get married. I also want to have a family with you some time as well, nothing would make me happier than to be living with you and having a little family of our own. We can get some cats too! We can get like ten billions if you wanted? Haha. I hope you enjoyed reading this. I love making these for you and I hope that it stayed on topic. You're perfect and I just can't be without you baby. Thank you for everything. I love you lots and lots like jelly tots.