

My Coming Out Story

Hey baby! I know you like my coming out story so I thought I would write it down, that way you can read it whenever you want. I just want you to know that I love you so so much and I want to be with you forever. You make me really happy baby and I love spending time with you. You're perfect, really beautiful, kind and caring sweetie. Thank you for everything you do. Anyway I'll shut up and get on with me story.

Looking back on it I think I've always been Bi, I would sometimes think certain guys to be cute. When I saw you though, I was drawn to you. I just had this feeling that kinda drove me to you. When I first saw you I thought you were shy and cute, your shyness added to the cuteness too. I think that deep down the first time I saw you was when I started to get interested in you, I just wasn't fully aware of it. I mean there were loads of hints that I should have picked up on like the fact I was flirting with you and calling you cute and sexy but you know this is me we're talking about here. Anyway, I wanted to find someone who I could settle down with, have everything with and someone who I can spoil. I started using dating apps but I never really found anyone on them, even if I found someone I just found it hard to talk to them. I'm not sure if it's because I'm awkward in general or if it's because deep down I wanted you and I just didn't know it. I'm not sure if I told you this but sometimes I would change the setting from women to men, I was just curious to see what it was like. Even though I wasn't having much luck with the dating apps, I carried on using them as there wasn't any harm in carrying on with them. When I went to uni I stopped using them as I thought there was no point anymore. At this point I thought I was going to be alone forever.

When I was at uni though I started to think about you more, I would think about you sometimes at college but when I went off to uni I started to think about you more. When I was at uni I was quite lonely as I never really had anyone to do things with and I was missing my family at times so my mental health wasn't that great. However, when I thought about you my problems would fade away, I guess you helped me even before we got together. When I thought about you I would think about what you were doing at that moment and wondering if you were ok. At uni I started watching South Park and there was an episode where there was a gay couple and I wished that me and you could have that. I know that it sounds silly but when I was at uni I would think about you a lot and it was when I was at uni that I started to think about you and me being together.

Once I had finished uni I had a lot more time on my hands and that's when I started to really question myself. I started to think about you every night, thinking what it would be like to kiss you and hug you and being in a relationship with you, it made me really happy. When I looked at your Facebook profile the first time round I noticed that you were in a relationship with someone, it kind of hurt me but I was happy for you at the same time. I really wanted to be with you but when I saw that you were with someone I backed off. However, when I looked at your Facebook profile around April I think it was, I noticed that you had then set your relationship status to single. I thought that I would tell you how I felt about you but I kept chickening out and saying I wanted to be friends, this annoyed me as well because I wanted to be with you but I found it hard to overcome that barrier. When you said to me that you wished someone like me was LGBT I thought maybe this is the best chance to tell you how I feel and so trying to ignore my nervousness I eventually had the guts to tell you how I feel.

Baby it was you who actually made me realise that I was Bi. That feeling I had for you when I first met you I think was me falling in love with you deep down. I love you baby, loads and loads. My love for you keeps growing and I don't want it to stop. I want to be with you forever. Thank you for everything you've done for me. Thank you for making me realise that I'm Bi, since I've come out I've been really happy. I really can't wait to spend my life with you and to see what the future has in store for us. I hope this was ok baby. I love you so so so much.